

There is absolutely no good reason to allow the use of cell phones on airplanes. It is the one place left where a person can be free of the constant yammering of self-important people who feel they must constantly hear the sound of their own voices.